Putah Creek Bike Path to be Temporarily Closed

September 17, 2014
The portion of the Putah Creek Parkway Bike Path between West Olive Drive and the tunnel under the railroad tracks will be closed for 3 weeks. This portion of the path is located behind Davis Commons and connects the Arboretum to south Davis.

The closure will begin Monday September 22, 2014. The closure will affect both bicyclists and pedestrians. During the closure bicyclists and pedestrians will be detoured to the Richards Boulevard undercrossing.

The closure is necessary for the City to perform construction work to shore up the steep slopes on either side of the concrete bike path. The City will be adding decomposed granite shoulders on both sides of the path and post and cable fencing at steep slope areas.

The construction work is primarily funded from the Proposition 84 Urban Greening Project Grant which included the improvements to the Davis Commons parking lot and the new east entry to the UC Davis Arboretum. When completed, the section of the Putah Creek Parkway between the I-80 undercrossing and the railroad undercrossing will have decomposed granite paths on both sides of the concrete bike path, native grasses, improved habitat for pipevine swallowtail butterflies and other native pollinators and wildlife. Volunteer opportunities exist to assist in the landscaping of this area. If you are interested in volunteering, contact Tree Davis at info@treedavis.org.
